Wellesley College,

WELLESLEY, MASSACHUSETTS.

Wellesley College was established in 1875, for the purpose of furnishing to young women who desire to obtain a liberal education, such advantages and facilities as are enjoyed in institutions of the highest grade.

The College is undenominational, but distinctively and positively Christian in its influence, discipline, and instruction. The systematic study of the Bible is required. Daily service is held in the chapel. The Sunday services are conducted by ministers of different denominations. The Wellesley College Christian Association is organized to promote the religious life of the College, to arouse an intelligent interest in social reforms, and to increase the interest in home and foreign missions.

By the charter, granted by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, "the corporation of Wellesley College is authorized to grant such honorary testimonials, and confer such honors, degrees, and diplomas, as are granted or conferred by any University, College, or Seminary of learning in this Commonwealth; and the diplomas so granted shall entitle the possessors to the immunities and privileges allowed, by usage or statute, to the possessors of like diplomas from any University, College or Seminary of learning in this Commonwealth."

Libraries.

The General Library of the College, endowed by Eben Norton Horsford, now numbers 47,000 carefully selected volumes, not including pamphlets, and is open from 7 A. M. to 9.20 P. M., and on Sundays, from 9 to 11 A. M. and from 2 to 6 P. M. Students have free access to the shelves. The library is fully catalogued by author and subject entries, and the most recent and useful bibliographical aids are provided; special effort is made by the librarians to train students in thorough measures of research. A practical course of instruction in Bibliography is given each year in connection with college courses in Literature, Art, Philosophy, History, and Economics.

One hundred and seventy-five American, English, French, and German periodicals are taken for the General Library. The list includes the most important representatives of the branches of instruction covered by the college curriculum. About thirty-seven daily, weekly, and monthly journals are taken for the reading room.

The following collections are located in the laboratories of the departments to which they belong:—

The Art Library, 1,480 volumes.

Botanical Library, 1,672 volumes.

Library of Physics, Physical Astronomy, Microscopy, and Physical Geography, 2,200 volumes.

Library of Zoölogy and Physiology, 1,627 volumes.

Library of Chemistry, 925 volumes.

The Gertrude Memorial Library, established by Mr. A. A. Sweet, with the Missionary Library, and other collections in the General Library, furnish 4,058 volumes for Biblical study and religious reading.

The Library of American Linguistics, a special gift from Prof. E. N. Horsford, now numbers 1,420 works, including the valuable collection made by Major J. W. Powell.

In the smaller houses, libraries of literary, historical, and religious works are accumulating through private generosity.

The Farnsworth Art Building and the Art Collections.

The Farnsworth Art Building, the gift of the late Isaac D. Farnsworth, was opened for work in September, 1889. Besides a lecture room, galleries for collections, and studios for those engaged in drawing and painting, a special feature in the plan of the building is the arrangement of laboratories and libraries, so that the books and art material relating to particular subjects and periods can be made immediately available to general students.

The Art Collection now numbers two thousand photographs, engravings, etchings, and drawings; a series of stereoscopic views illustrating the history and art of different nations and periods; a collection of paintings in oil and water colors; copies of ancient armor; a few ceramics, coins, and pieces in bronze and iron; one hundred statues and busts; a small collection of casts from the antique; thirty-six pieces of pottery from an ancient cemetery on the Isthmus of Panama, the gift of Mrs. J. S. Lamson; the James Jackson Jarves collection of laces and embroideries; and the Stetson collection of sixty-five paintings in oil.

Laboratories and Scientific Collections.

CHEMICAL LABORATORIES.

A building has recently been erected for work in Chemistry alone. This contains a large laboratory for General Chemistry, with lockers for two hundred students; separate rooms for analytical work in qualitative and quantitative branches; and a room specially arranged for making organic preparations. All of the rooms are well lighted, conveniently arranged, and thoroughly equipped with modern appliances for successful work. The building contains also a reading room, and a large lecture room admirably arranged for experimental illustrations.

GEOLOGICAL AND MINERALOGICAL COLLECTIONS.

The mineralogical specimens are arranged in three collections. One collection is exhibited in glass cases, and illustrates the variety and finer qualities of mineral specimens; also by its arrangement with labels for the groups into which it is divided, it shows the classification of minerals, and, to some extent, their association.

Another collection is used for reference. It contains well-characterized specimens of the more common species. The specimens are labeled and arranged in drawers, and the collection is always accessible to students taking Mineralogy.

There is a third collection, which is used for teaching purposes. It comprises smaller but well-selected specimens, which are systematically arranged in small wooden trays with numbers, but without labels. During an exercise each student has one of these trays, which presents objectively the subject of the lesson.

The room containing these collections is supplied with tables equipped with appliances for testing specimens and laboratory work.

The geological collection of specimens used in teaching the kinds of rocks, rock-structures, the fossil evidences of life and their succession in past times, is so arranged in cases and labeled that it permanently illustrates these topics.

PHYSICAL LABORATORIES.

The department of Physics occupies a convenient lecture room, provided with arrangements for sunlight and lantern projection, and adequate apparatus for illustrative experiments.

Laboratories for students are equipped with instruments adapted to a wide range of work. Rooms are especially fitted for photometry, photography, spectroscopic work, and electrical measurements. A workshop is provided with lathe and tools. A steam engine and two dynamos are connected with the laboratories.

BOTANICAL LABORATORIES.

For the use of students in morphological, histological and physiological work, there are three distinct laboratories, each of which is thoroughly equipped for its special purpose. The laboratory for advanced work has also the necessary physical and chemical apparatus, and such other appliances as are requisite to enable students to carry on independent research.

The collections illustrative of Botany includes: the herbarium, containing upward of six thousand phanerogams and about six thousand and five hundred cryptogams; a generic collection mounted under glass; a collection of woods, fruits, and economic vegetable products and a set of drugs fully illustrating the pharmacopœia; two hundred charts by Henslow, Kny, Dodel-Port, and others; a collection of Auzoux's botanical models, illustrating the structure of both flowering and flowerless plants.

In addition to the working collections a permanent museum is being arranged.

ZOÖLOGICAL LABORATORIES.

There are three laboratories for the study of Zoölogy and Animal Physiology. Students are provided with dissecting and compound microscopes, and, for special demonstration, lenses of exceedingly high power are available.

Accessories which aid in the pursuit of the subject are: the museum, a typical collection of both vertebrates and invertebrates; a considerable and increasing number of charts; a collection of His, Blaschka, and Auzoux models, including a manikin, and models of separate organs and mechanisms. There is also an excellent collection of birds of the locality, and one of insects.

PSYCHOLOGICAL LABORATORY.

The work of the laboratory is carried on in five rooms (among which are dark-room and lecture-room) with electrical connections. The equipment includes Sanford's chronograph; Lough's electrically actuated pendulum; kymograph, tambours, pneumograph, etc., for recording physiological reactions; a color-wheel, a campimeter, a Wheatstone stereoscope; the Hering simultaneous contrast apparatus; Münsterberg's apparatus for the localization of sound, tuning-forks and sonometers; a pressure-balance, æsthesiometers, graduated weights, etc.; and apparatus for special investigations. Students may have the use of models and plates of the brain, and of dissecting instruments.

MATHEMATICAL MODELS.

The collection of mathematical models consists of a set of models of simple solids, surfaces of the second and higher orders, and circular sections of surfaces of the second order. They are executed in wood, thread, card, and plaster.

Concerts and Lectures.

Frequent recitals and concerts are given by instructors in the Department of Music, by advanced students, and by distinguished musicians from Boston and elsewhere. These concerts are free, but it is expected that all who are able will contribute to the Concert Fund.

One lecture on a Shakespearean subject is provided annually by the income of the Kate Howard Furness Fund, and two readings or lectures on elocution by that of the Monroe Fund; also a course of lectures on current topics is maintained from October until May. The lectures on current topics are given by members of the Wellesley faculty, assisted by professors of other faculties and by other speakers. There are also occasional addresses of special interest to members of some one department, but open to the College at large.

Health Provisions.

Wellesley is known as one of the most healthful towns in Massachusetts. The college grounds include more than three hundred acres, and give ample opportunity for exercise and recreation. Lake Waban affords a most attractive place for boating and skating.

The health of the students is considered of primary importance. In the construction of the buildings this has been kept constantly in view. Everything possible has been done to give an abundance of light, sunshine, fresh air, and pure water. The drainage, natural and artificial, is excellent. Nearly all the houses are located on hills, and the ground slopes from them in every direction, so that stagnant waters are impossible.

Two health officers have special oversight of the health of the students. Two hospital wards are provided in College Hall, one in Stone Hall, and an emergency ward in an isolated building. A nurse is in constant residence. No charge is made for attendance or medicine, except in cases of prolonged illness.

Freshmen are required to take a course in Physiology and Hygiene, one appointment per week for a year.

The Health Officers, the Director of Physical Training, and the Professor of Elocution constitute a Board of Health, to which reference is made in those cases where special examination is deemed necessary.

Three hours per week of physical training are required in the freshman year. A limited number of upper-class students may, under favorable circumstances, arrange for work in the Gymnasium.

The Gymnasium is equipped with apparatus for Swedish educational gymnastics.

The Playstead, or out-of-door gymnasium, furnishes opportunity for organized sports and pastimes; it may also be used by the gymnastic classes in suitable weather. The class crews, selected on the basis of physical suitability, are trained in rowing.

Residence.

Two systems of lodging are in use at Wellesley,—the cottage system and the hall system: College Hall, with three dining rooms, accommodates two hundred and seventy-seven persons; Stone Hall, with four dining rooms, one hundred and three; Freeman Cottage, forty-eight; Wood Cottage, forty-nine; Norumbega Cottage, thirty-two; The Eliot, thirty-one; Simpson Cottage, twenty-three; Waban Cottage, eleven; The Fiske, thirty-four. Each building contains single rooms as well as suites for two students. All the rooms are fully furnished, and supplied with electric lights or student lamps. Each hall has an elevator.

Expenses.

The charge to all students living in the college buildings and taking the regular college course, without music, is $400 per year.* Such students will pay $250 at the opening of the College in September. Of this amount, $175 is for tuition. At the beginning of the second semester, the balance ($150) is due.

Students who are not lodged in the college buildings make their entire tuition payment (see below) at the time of the opening in September. These payments must be made before the student may take her place in the class room. No exception will be made to this rule without a written permission from the Treasurer.

☞ Checks or money orders should be made payable to Wellesley College.

TUITION.

The charge for full tuition to all students, whether living in college buildings or not, is $175 a year.

Tuition must always be paid in advance, and is not subject to return or deduction.

Students who are permitted to take seven hours or less of class-room work per week, and who do not live in the college buildings, pay tuition by the course as follows: For a one-hour course, $20; a two-hour course, $40; a three-hour course $60. Payment is due at the beginning of the year. No charge is made for tuition in Bible study.

An additional charge is made for materials in the following laboratory courses: $5 for each laboratory course in Botany, Chemistry, or Zoölogy, and $1 for each course in Physics, Mineralogy, or Paleontology. Every student should also reckon on the expenditure of $10 to $25 annually for the purchase of books. At the time of taking the degree a diploma fee is charged. This is $5 for the B.A. degree and $25 for the M.A. degree. At the time of taking a certificate, a certificate fee of $3 is due.

TUITION AND OTHER CHARGES IN THE DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC.

For instruction for the college year in Piano, Organ, Violin, or Vocal Music, two lessons per week	$100 00
One lesson per week	50 00
(Lessons forty-five minutes each.)
Two half-hour lessons per week	75 00

* Until the close of the college year which ends in June, 1899, all students who were in attendance during the college year 1895–96 will pay at the rate for that year, $150 for tuition and $200 for board; $200 due on entrance, and $150 at the beginning of the second semester. No students except those enrolled for the full year 1895–96, and present at both semester examinations, can be admitted at these rates. No assistance in clerical or domestic work is required from any student.

Ensemble playing, class of six, each student	$35 00
For use of the Piano or Reed Organ, one period daily, for the year	10 00
For two periods daily	20 00
For three periods daily	30 00
For use of the Pipe Organ in Music Hall, one period daily, for the year	15 00
For two periods daily	30 00

All charges in music are payable in advance, and are not subject to return or deduction. Charges for instruction on instruments not mentioned will be fixed when the lessons are arranged. Tuition in music for students beginning after the opening of the college year is in proportion to the number of lessons given.

BOARD.

A student vacating a room before the close of the year will be charged for board at the rate of $7 a week until the vacancy has been filled by an incoming student. Therefore, notice of an intention to withdraw should be given at the earliest possible moment. No deduction is made for absences during the year.

Application for rooms in the college buildings should be made from one to two years in advance of the time at which the student is expected to enter, or, if possible, even earlier. A fee of $10 is required for recording application, and no application is recorded until the fee is received. This fee will be credited to the student, and a corresponding deduction made on her first payment. If the student decides to withdraw, the fee will be returned provided notification of withdrawal is received at Wellesley before the 15th of August. A student who postpones entrance until the year following the one for which she first applied may transfer her application fee.

Until July 1st, but not after that date, applications from former students will take precedence of those of new students in the matter of rooms. Board can be obtained in private families in the village for $6 per week and upward. A limited number of students can arrange for board at the College during the Christmas and spring vacations; the charge is $6 per week for students enrolled for the full year 1895–96, and $7 per week for all others. Information regarding boarding places may be obtained by addressing the Dean.

Scholarships, etc.

A. For Graduates.

Thirty scholarships to the value of $175 per year have been established for the benefit of approved candidates for the M.A. degree. Applications for these scholarships should be addressed to the Chairman of the Committee on Graduate Instruction, Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass.

B. For Undergraduates.*

The Wood Memorial Scholarship, founded in 1878, by Mrs. Caroline A. Wood, in memory of her husband.

The Grover Scholarship, founded in 1878, by William O. Grover.

The Weston Scholarship, founded in 1878, by David M. Weston.

The Northfield Seminary Scholarship, founded in 1878.

The Pauline A. Durant Scholarship, founded in 1880, by Mr. and Mrs. Durant.

The Sweatman Scholarship, founded in 1880, by Mr. V. C. Sweatman.

The Walter Baker Memorial Scholarship, founded in 1880, by Mrs. Eleanor J. W. Baker; raised to $7,000 by will of Mrs. Baker in 1892.

The Annie M. Wood Scholarship, founded in 1880, by Frank Wood.

Two Frost Scholarships, founded in 1880, by Rufus S. Frost, as follows:—

One of $1,000, the income to be given annually to some member of the graduating class designated by the Faculty.

One of $5,000, the income to be devoted annually to the aid of students.

The Union Church Scholarship, founded in 1880, by Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Stetson.

The Florence N. Brown Memorial Scholarship, founded in 1880, by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel N. Brown, Jr.

The Augustus R. Clark Memorial Scholarship, founded in 1880, by Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Clark.

Four Harriet Fowle Scholarships, founded in 1881, by Henry Fowle Durant, in memory of his mother.

The Durant Memorial Scholarship, founded in 1883, by the officers and students of Wellesley College, in honor of Henry F. Durant, the income to be appropriated annually to some student selected by the Faculty.

The Jane Topliff Memorial Scholarship of $6,000, founded in 1883, by Mrs. William S. Houghton, in memory of her mother.

The income of a fund of $25,000 known as the "Stone Educational Fund," founded in 1884, by Mrs. Valeria G. Stone.

The Jeannie L. White Scholarship, founded in 1886, by herself.

The Mr. and Mrs. Solomon F. Smith Memorial Scholarship, founded in 1888, by George Smith, for the tuition of students from the town of Wellesley.

The Margaret McClung Cowan Fund, of $1,000, founded in 1888, by Rev. and Mrs. P. D. Cowan, in memory of their daughter.

* Unless otherwise stated these scholarships are of $5,000 each.

The Emmelar Scholarship, founded in 1889, by the Class of '91, the income to be appropriated annually to some student selected by the Faculty.

The Sarah J. Houghton Scholarship, of $6,000, founded in 1889, by William S. Houghton, in memory of his wife.

By provision of Mr. E. A. Goodnow, in 1885, the sum of $250 is annually divided among five deserving students.

The Edith Baker Memorial Scholarship, of $7,000, founded by bequest of Mrs. E. J. W. Baker, in 1892.

The Joseph N. Fiske Memorial Scholarship, of $8,000, founded in 1892, by Mrs. J. N. Fiske.

The Abbie A. Coburn Memorial Scholarship, of $2,000, founded in 1892.

The Eliza C. Jewett Scholarship, of $6,000, founded in 1894; the income to be appropriated to the daughter of a clergyman, or of a home or foreign missionary, selected by the Faculty of the College.

The Ada L. Howard Scholarship, of $6,000, founded in 1895.

The Helen Day Gould Scholarship, of $7,000, founded in 1896, by Helen Miller Gould, in memory of her mother.

The Goodwin Scholarship, founded in 1897, by Hannah B. Goodwin. This scholarship is not available at present.

The Students' Aid Society also receives and disburses smaller sums, thus aiding those who, while they have some resources, could not meet the entire expense of a college course. The object of the Society is to assist young women who would otherwise be unable to obtain an education. In many cases money is loaned to students without interest, in the expectation that whenever they are able they will repay the Society; assistance is often given partly in gifts and partly in loans.

The funds at the disposal of the Society are wholly insufficient to meet the wants of the applicants. Contributions of any amount will be gladly received, and should be sent to the Treasurer of the Society, Mrs. Pauline A. Durant, Wellesley, Mass. All applications for assistance must be made by letter, addressed to the Secretary of the Students' Aid Society, Wellesley, Mass., before May first of the year preceding that for which the aid is needed.

In two cottages, a reduction of $100 is allowed on payment for board, under certain conditions.

ADMISSION.

Admission of Undergraduates.

A candidate for admission must be at least sixteen years of age, and must present satisfactory evidence of good moral character and good health. A blank form for the certificate of health will be sent to her on July 20th. This certificate must be received at the College before September 1st.

Unless admitted on certificate (see page 28), any student who desires to become a candidate for a degree must pass examinations (for time and place see pp. 30, 31) in the following subjects: English, Geography, History, Mathematics, Latin, and the maximum requirement in either Greek, French, or German; and in addition, either the minimum requirement in a third language or one of the following sciences: Physics, Chemistry, Zoölogy.

Full particulars regarding the subjects of examination are appended.

I. English.

Rhetoric.—Choice of Words, Construction of Sentences and of Paragraphs, Outlines of Themes.

Text-books recommended: Scott and Denney's Composition–Rhetoric; J. F. Genung's Outlines of Rhetoric; A. S. Hill's Foundations of Rhetoric, and as companion book, Huber Gray Buehler's Practical Exercises in English; W. G. Mead's Elementary Composition and Rhetoric. The first half of Genung's Practical Elements of Rhetoric will be accepted.

Composition.—The subjects for the examination in Composition will be taken from the English Literature required for the year. The form of the examination will usually be the writing of a paragraph or two on each of several topics, to be chosen by the candidate from a number set before her in the examination paper. The treatment of these topics is designed to test the candidate's power of clear and accurate expression, and will call for only a general knowledge of the substance of the books. In place of the whole o a part of this test, the candidate may be allowed to present an exercise book, properly certified by the instructor, containing compositions or other written work done in connection with the reading of the books.

To meet the requirement in composition, the student should have practice in writing equivalent to fortnightly themes during the first two years; and weekly themes during the last two years of the preparatory course. No applicant will be accepted in English whose work is notably defective in point of spelling, grammar, idiom, punctuation, or division into paragraphs.

Literature.—The Wellesley requirement is that adopted by the Commission of New England Colleges.

A. Reading.

Certain books are set for reading. The candidate is required to present evidence of a general knowledge of the subject matter, and to answer simple questions on the lives of the authors.

The books set for this part of the examination are:—

1898: Milton's Paradise Lost, Books I. and II.; Pope's Iliad, Books I. and XXII.; the Sir Roger de Coverley Papers; Goldsmith's Vicar of Wakefield; Coleridge's Ancient Mariner; Southey's Life of Nelson; Carlyle's Essay on Burns; Lowell's Vision of Sir Launfal; Hawthorne's House of the Seven Gables.

1899: Dryden's Palamon and Arcite; Pope's Iliad, Books I., VI., XXII., and XXIV.; the Sir Roger de Coverley Papers; Goldsmith's Vicar of Wakefield; Coleridge's Ancient Mariner; De Quincey's Flight of a Tartar Tribe; Cooper's Last of the Mohicans; Lowell's Vision of Sir Launfal; Hawthorne's House of the Seven Gables.

1900: Dryden's Palamon and Arcite; Pope's Iliad, Books I., VI., XXII., and XXIV.; the Sir Roger de Coverley Papers; Goldsmith's Vicar of Wakefield; Scott's Ivanhoe; De Quincey's Flight of a Tartar Tribe; Cooper's Last of the Mohicans; Tennyson's Princess; Lowell's Vision of Sir Launfal.

B. Study and Practice.

This part of the examination presupposes the thorough study of each of the works named below. The examination will be upon subject-matter, form, and structure.

The books set for this part of the examination are:—

1898: Shakespeare's Macbeth; Burke's Speech on Conciliation with America; De Quincey's Flight of a Tartar Tribe; Tennyson's Princess.

1899: Shakespeare's Macbeth; Milton's Paradise Lost, Books I. and II.; Burke's Speech on Conciliation with America; Carlyle's Essay on Burns.

1900: Shakespeare's Macbeth; Milton's Paradise Lost, Books I. and II.; Burke's Speech on Conciliation with America; Macaulay's Essays on Milton and Addison.

II. Geography:—

Ancient Geography of Greece, Italy, and Asia Minor.

III. History:—

A brief history of the United States to the close of the Revolutionary War; of Greece to the Peloponnesian War; and of Rome to the close of the first century A. D. English History may be substituted for Greek History by candidates not offering Greek.

Beginning with September, 1900, a single subject will be required to which the equivalent of three recitations per week for the school year must be given. The subject may be chosen from the following: the History of Greece to the death of Alexander, with due reference to Greek life, literature, and art; the History of Rome, the Republic and Empire to the accession of Commodus; English History, with due reference to social and political development; American History, with the elements of Civil Government. Any candidate desiring to do so, may offer a year's work in a single subject in September, 1898 or 1899. It is expected that a second subject with an equal time requirement will be added in the near future. Meantime a second subject will be accepted on examination as a college course. Notebooks and other written work should be submitted as supplementary evidence.

IV. Mathematics :—

Algebra.—Proportion, Inequalities, Powers and Roots, Quadratic Equations, Arithmetic Progression, Geometric Progression.

Plane Geometry.—As found in Chauvenet, or its equivalent.

Deficiency in preparation usually results from one or more of the following causes: the use of text-books which are too elementary, insufficient length of time spent in preparation, neglect of exercises in original demonstration in Geometry, and of reviews in both Algebra and Geometry. One and one third years, with daily recitations, is the minimum time in which satisfactory preparation can be made in Algebra, and one year with daily recitations is the minimum in Geometry. We strongly urge the necessity of constant exercise in original demonstration in Geometry, with frequent written examinations in both Algebra and Geometry, the problems proposed being drawn from other sources than the text-books.

V. Latin :—

Grammar, including Prosody.

The study of the rules of Prosody should be accompanied by such exercises in transposition of Latin verses as will make the rules familiar.

Prose Composition.

Forty written exercises in translation of English into Latin, which shall be equivalent, both in amount and in principles involved, to the whole of Jones's Prose Composition.

It is recommended that Jones be used for the groundwork, and be supplemented by exercises in continuous narrative from Daniell's New Latin Composition or Moulton and Collar's Preparatory Latin Composition. If no text-book has been used, a certificate for prose composition may not be accepted.

Cæsar, Gallic War, four books.

Cicero, seven orations, or six if the Manilian Law be one.

Vergil, Æneid, six books.

Equivalents will be accepted, especially if they are in the line of the requirements of the New England Commission of Colleges and Preparatory Schools; but verse will not be taken in place of prose, nor anything instead of the required translation of English into Latin. Constant practice in reading at sight is urged. The entrance examinations and the conduct of the work in College assume such training.

Care should be given to the observance of quantity no less in the reading of prose than of verse.

In addition to the foregoing five subjects required of all, a candidate must offer a maximum requirement in Greek, or French, or German, together with a minimum requirement in a third language or in a science.

MAXIMUM REQUIREMENT IN GREEK.

Grammar. The etymology must be thoroughly mastered.

Prose Composition. At least forty written exercises based upon the Greek of Xenophon, including connected passages and accompanied by a systematic study of the main principles of syntax.

Xenophon, Anabasis, three books.

Homer, Iliad, three books; with scansion.

Candidates must be prepared to translate at sight both Attic and Homeric Greek of average difficulty, and to write in Greek a connected passage based upon Xenophon.

Particular attention should be given to the correct writing of Greek with the accents, to exercises both oral and written, and to the use of the blackboard for constant practice upon forms and constructions.

The following pronunciation is recommended: α as a in father; η as e in prey; ι as i in machine; ω as o in prone; υ as French u. The short vowels should be merely somewhat shorter than the corresponding long vowels; αι as ay in aye; ει as ei in rein or in height; οι as oi in oil; υι as ui in quit; αυ as ou in house; ευ as eu in feud; ου as ou in youth; γ before κ, γ, χ, ξ as n in anger, elsewhere hard; ϑ as th in thin; χ guttural, as ch in German machen.

The teachers of language in the preparatory schools are urged to insist upon the use of simple and idiomatic English in translation.

Ability to read at sight either easy French or German prose is strongly recommended to all classical students.

MINIMUM REQUIREMENT IN GREEK.

Systematic study of etymology from Goodwin's or Hadley and Allen's Grammar, in connection with a book of First Lessons. Anabasis, at least three chapters. Practice in writing Greek.

This work requires at least one year, with five recitations per week. It must be distinctly understood that this preparation does not admit the student to any college course in Greek.

MAXIMUM REQUIREMENT IN FRENCH.

To meet the maximum requirement in French the candidate must be prepared in the following:—

(1) Grammar: a knowledge of the etymology and the essential principles of syntax, especially the use of moods and tenses. (2) Composition: familiarity with the commoner idioms, and ability to translate easy English into French at sight. (3) Reading: not less than five hundred duodecimo pages of classical and contemporary prose and verse from at least four standard authors. (4) Conversation: ability to follow a recitation conducted in French, and to answer questions in that language. (5) Ability to understand and repeat some short selections from French prose and poetry.

These results can be best attained by the use of the books indicated for College courses 1 and 2, or their equivalents. See pages 41, 42 of present Calendar.

The maximum preparation in French should cover a period of at least two years, five recitations per week.

MINIMUM REQUIREMENT IN FRENCH.

As the minimum requirement a student may offer either A or B:—

A. The first year of the maximum requirement, viz.: (1) Grammar; including the conjugation of the regular and the more usual irregular verbs. (2) Composition: translation at sight of simple sentences from English into French. (3) Reading: at least two hundred duodecimo pages from at least three different authors. Not more than one half of this should be from works of fiction. (4) Conversation: French should be the language of the class room.

B. (1) Grammar as for minimum A. (2) The ability to read easy prose at sight.

The student should translate, with careful attention to the grammar, at least three hundred pages from such works as La Prise de la Bastille, by Michelet; La Mare au Diable, by George Sand; La Chute, by Victor Hugo; or the prose of such authors as Souvestre, Daudet, and About. The selections should be made from at least four different authors.

Students meeting minimum requirement B may be admitted to course 16, but not to course 2 without additional preparation. The minimum preparation in French should cover a period of at least one year, five recitations per week.

MAXIMUM REQUIREMENT IN GERMAN.

To meet the maximum requirement in German the candidate must have:—

(1) A distinct German pronunciation, which may be acquired at the outset by a course in phonetics; (2) A knowledge of the important rules of elementary grammar, which the student should be able to state in German, and to illustrate by original examples; (3) Ability to understand spoken German, an easy lecture or novel, which will be acquired if German is made the language of the class room; (4) Fluency in conversation upon simple topics, and knowledge of German idioms, which are gained by object lessons according to Pestalozzi's Anschauungs Method, and by constant recitation in German; (5) Ability to understand and recite some short specimens of choice lyric poetry; (6) Ability to translate easy German at sight; (7) Ability to translate easy English into German, to write simple compositions, and to use the German script.

These results can be obtained by the following course, or its equivalents:—

Grammar: Deutsche Sprachlehre, by Wenckebach.

Prose composition: German Composition, by Ch. Harris, pp. 1–54; written abstracts of lessons in conversation, and stories from the Lesebuch.

Reading: Deutsches Lesebuch, by Wenckebach, pp. 1–126 and 167–247, studied according to the directions given in the preface. An easy story for practice in sight reading (e. g., Meissner's Aus meiner Welt), a drama (e. g., Lessing's Minna von Barnhelm), and Goethe's Dichtung und Wahrheit, three books.

Conversation: Deutscher Anschauungs-Unterricht, by Wenckebach, pp. 1–52, 78–82, 91–117, 128–161. Idioms, pp. 315–332 (see preface).

Poetry: Die Schönsten Deutschen Lieder, compiled by Wenckebach; the first five "Volkslieder," and numbers 2, 3, 8, 10, 14, 15, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 26, 28, 30, 32, 33, 34, 37, 40, 42, 45, 46, 47, 50, 51, 52, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, committed to memory.

The maximum preparation in German should cover a period of at least two years, five recitations per week.

MINIMUM REQUIREMENT IN GERMAN.

As the minimum requirement, a student may offer either A or B.

A. The first year of the maximum requirement, namely:—

(1) Deutsche Sprachlehre, pp. 1–150; German Composition, pp. 1–21; (2) Reading: Deutsches Lesebuch, pp. 1–125 and 167–247. Poetry committed to memory, pp. 220–224 in the Lesebuch; (3) Speaking exercises; Deutscher Anschauungs-Unterricht, pp. 1–36. Idioms, pp. 315–319.

B. The ability to read easy prose at sight.

The student should translate, with attention to the grammar, at least two hundred pages of such German texts as Andersen's Bilderbuch ohne Bilder, Fouqué's Undine, Chamisso's Peter Schlemihl.

Students meeting minimum requirement B may be admitted to a translation class (course 4, p. 37), but not to course 2 without additional preparation.

The minimum preparation in German requires at least one year, five recitations per week, and should not be crowded into a shorter time.

Equivalents will be accepted; but reading will not be taken in place of grammar, nor poetry for conversation, etc.

Students who meet the maximum requirement in German or French must take both the examination for the maximum requirement and also the examination in the minimum A requirement in that language.

MINIMUM REQUIREMENT IN SCIENCE.

Any one of the three following sciences: (1) Physics, The Harvard requirement in Physics; or, the equivalent of the courses outlined in the Report of the Committee on Secondary School Studies, pp. 117–127 [National Educational Association, 1892]. (2) Chemistry, Remsen's Introduction to the Study of Chemistry, Briefer Course; or, the course outlined in the Report of the Committee on Secondary School Studies, pp. 127–137. (3) Zoölogy: Colton's Practical Zoölogy, except those parts which involve the use of the compound microscope. The student must be able to recognize the animals, and to make the dissections described in that book.

The preparation in these sciences should cover at least one year, five recitations per week. In all the science courses, notebooks of laboratory work, certified by the teacher, are to be presented in addition to examination, or certificate of examination, upon the text.

Admission on Certificate.

Any school whose equipment and curriculum enable it to prepare students for the freshman class, upon complying with the regulations stated below, may receive the right to give to each candidate a certificate of scholarship, which shall excuse the candidate from College entrance examinations in the subjects satisfactorily covered by the certificate.

RIGHT OF CERTIFICATION.

1. The principal of a preparatory school who wishes a student to enter on his certificate in September, must apply for the right of certification not later than the first day of the preceding April. In response to this application a blank form will be sent, which the Principal is requested to fill out and return, sending with it a catalogue or circular of the school.

2. The school is considered to be on probation during the first year of the first candidate. The right of certification may be withdrawn at any time from any school which fails to give complete and satisfactory preparation.

CERTIFICATE OF SCHOLARSHIP.

1. The principal of the preparatory school must present, upon a blank form furnished by the College, a certificate of scholarship for each candidate.

2. All certificates must be forwarded in time to be received at the College by July 1st, unless special arrangements have been made with the Board of Examiners. On or before August 1st each candidate will be informed of the decision with regard to her certificate.

3. All certificates must show distinctly that the candidate has met in detail the requirements as published in the current Calendar. Whenever any variation has been allowed, the work done must be specifically stated and offered as an equivalent, to be accepted or refused.

4. All certificates must be signed by the principal of the school, and countersigned by the assistants who have instructed the candidate.

5. Supplementary certificates will not be accepted. Deficiencies upon the certificate received in July can be made good only by examination at the College.

6. The subjects required for entrance are divided into three groups,—preliminary, intermediate, and final. Examinations in the preliminary subjects, i. e., Rhetoric, History of Greece, Rome, England, and the United States, Ancient Geography, Latin Grammar, Cæsar, Anabasis, and Greek for the minimum requirement, may be held at any time before entering College. Examinations in the intermediate subjects, i. e., Algebra or Geometry, English Literature, Vergil and Prosody, Cicero, Iliad, Greek Grammar, German (reading, poetry, and technical grammar for maximum requirement), French (reading, poetry, and technical grammar for maximum requirement), Physics, Chemistry, and Zoölogy, may be held at any time within fifteen months of entrance in September.

Examinations in the final subjects—i. e., English Composition, Latin Prose Composition, Greek Prose Composition, French Prose Composition and Conversation for maximum requirement, German Prose Composition and Conversation for maximum requirement, French and German minimum requirements, and either Geometry or Algebra—must be held not earlier than twelve months before entrance in September.

7. The candidate who has received the certificate of a principal will not be exempt from the entrance examinations in any particular subject, unless her certificate shows that she has satisfactorily accomplished the full amount of work required in that subject. Any student whose certificate is found on July 1st to be deficient in more than three final or intermediate, or six preliminary subjects, may be refused the privilege of taking examination the following September.

8. Candidates will not be admitted if conditioned in two, or heavily conditioned in one, of the following subjects: Latin, Greek, French, German, Mathematics, Science.

9. The student who has met all entrance requirements is qualified for immediate matriculation for the Baccalaureate degree in Arts.

All communications concerning entrance examinations and certificates should be addressed to the Secretary of Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass.

Admission to Advanced Standing.

Candidates for advanced standing must fulfill the requirements for admission to the freshman class, and must also be prepared to be examined in the required studies previously pursued by the class which they wish to join, and in a sufficient number of electives to give full standing with that class.

Such candidates, if they come from other colleges, may present certificates of collegiate work; but it should be clearly understood that they are not necessarily thereby relieved from examinations.

Each candidate should apply for a statement of the credentials which she will need to present.

All correspondence should be addressed to the Secretary of the College.

Admission of Students not Candidates for a Degree.

Opportunities for special study are offered to students who are not candidates for a degree, but who are able to present evidence of fitness for college work. Maturity of mind and character is an important consideration. The college cannot admit to its classes students who lack the ability, the preparation, or the serious purpose required for the successful completion of the regular course. All courses, graduate as well as undergraduate, are open to special students, subject to the conditions stated by the various departments; but every such student is expected to choose a primary subject, to which she should devote the greater part of her time, and in which she should elect two or more courses. In addition, she may pursue one or more allied subjects as secondary electives.

Any student who creditably completes a prescribed group of courses in two or more departments will be granted a certificate.

A candidate for special courses is expected to meet, by examination or by certificate of an accredited school, the entrance requirements for the regular course or a full equivalent for them; and must also give evidence, by examination, if required, of proficiency already attained in the subjects in which she desires to specialize.

Opportunities of prosecuting work along special lines are open to persons of experience and success in teaching, who possess the requisite qualifications for admission to college classes.

Special students will be placed on probation when admitted, and cannot be retained if their scholarship is not in every way satisfactory to the departments which they enter.

As the capacity of dormitories is not sufficient for the number of students in the regular course, special students cannot be lodged in the college buildings.

Application for entrance as a special student, with all required certificates, should be forwarded to the College before the first of July. All correspondence should be addressed to the Secretary of the College.

EXAMINATIONS.

Entrance Examinations.

The subjects for entrance examinations are divided into three groups: preliminary, intermediate, and final.

Examinations may be taken in June or September of any year before entering College in the preliminary subjects: Rhetoric, History of Greece, Rome, England, and the United States, Ancient Geography, Latin Grammar, Cæsar, Anabasis, and the minimum requirement in Greek.

Examinations must be taken not earlier than June of the year before entrance in the intermediate subjects: Algebra or Geometry, English Literature, Vergil and Prosody, Cicero, Iliad, Greek Grammar, German (reading, poetry, and technical grammar for maximum requirement); French (reading, poetry, and technical grammar for maximum requirement); Physics, Chemistry, and Zoölogy.

Examinations must be taken not earlier than September of the year before entrance in the finals: English Composition, Latin Prose Composition, Greek Prose Composition, French Prose Composition and Conversation for maximum requirement; German Prose Composition and Conversation for maximum requirement; French and German minimum requirements, and either Geometry or Algebra.

Entrance examinations are offered at the College in June and September of each year. Such examinations may be appointed in June in any city where they are desired by two or more candidates. Applications for these local examinations should be made before April 1st to the Secretary of the College.

The following is the schedule of the entrance examinations in 1898.

College Examinations.

An examination period occurs at the end of each semester. At this period, and also during the days of the entrance examinations in September, examinations for advanced standing and also for removal of conditions or deficiencies may be taken. Students intending to take examinations, either for advanced standing or for the removal of deficiencies or conditions, should report to the departments concerned a week before the beginning of the examination period.

☞The College reserves the right to require the withdrawal of students whose scholarship is not satisfactory.

DEGREES.

The following degrees will be conferred by the Trustees upon recommendation of the Academic Council:—

Bachelor of Arts.

Master of Arts.

Requirements for the B.A. Degree.

Every candidate for the B.A. degree must complete before graduation the equivalent of fifty-nine one-hour courses,* of which a certain number are required, the rest elective.

The following subjects are required: Mathematics, one full course;† Philosophy, one full course; Physiology and Hygiene, one one-hour course;* Bible study, four one-hour courses; English, three one-hour courses; Language, one full course; Natural Sciences, two full courses. The science courses must be in different departments. If a student offers for entrance the minimum requirement in science, only one full course of natural science is required in College.

Of the required subjects, Mathematics must be taken in the freshman year; Physiology and Hygiene in the freshman year; Bible, one hour per week in the freshman and sophomore years, two hours per week in the junior year; English in the freshman, sophomore, and junior years, one hour per week each year. Of the natural sciences, one must be taken before the junior year, the other may be elected at any time during the course; language may be taken in any year. Philosophy should be taken in the junior year, save in exceptional cases.

Except by special permission, a student may not take fewer than ten nor more than fifteen hours of work in any one year.

The candidate for the degree is also required to show, before graduation, that the equivalent of eighteen one-hour courses has been taken as follows:—

(a) Nine in each of two subjects, related or unrelated.

(b) Nine in one subject, with nine divided between two tributary subjects.

(c) Twelve in one subject, with six in a tributary subject.

(d) Twelve in one subject with six divided between two tributary subjects.

In general, work done in required subjects may be counted in making up these eighteen hours; but course 1 in French, and course 1 or the first half of course 3 in German, may not be counted.

Requirements for the M. A. Degree.

GRADUATE INSTRUCTION.

Wellesley College recognizes two classes of graduate students: (1) Those who are candidates for the degree of Master of Arts, and (2) those who do not make application for the Master's degree.

* A one-hour course is a course given once a week for one year.

† A full course is a course given either three or four times a week for one year.

Graduate students who are not candidates for the Master's degree must have taken the Bachelor's degree, and must submit for approval to the Committee on Graduate Instruction the plan of study which they wish to pursue.

Candidates for the degree of Master of Arts must be graduates of Wellesley College, or of some institution of equal standing, and must give satisfactory evidence of ability to carry on the work for the Master's degree.

The amount of work required of candidates for the M.A. degree consists of the equivalent of fifteen one-hour courses chosen from the courses described in the circular of Graduate Instruction. The student is advised to choose one major subject, and not more than two minor subjects, which should be related to the major subject.

One year is the shortest time in which a candidate can complete the work required; but it must be understood that only students of ability and maturity will be able to finish it in so short a time.

Upon completion of the work for the degree of Master of Arts, either an examination or a thesis, or both, will be required. The examination must be taken at Wellesley College during the regular examination period in June of the year in which the degree is to be conferred.

Thirty scholarships, as described on page 19, are open to accepted candidates for the Master's degree. Candidates residing in the college buildings will pay the full charge for board and tuition, $400 per annum. Upon receiving the Master's degree, a fee of twenty-five dollars will be required of each candidate.

Non-resident students who meet the requirements will receive the degree of M.A., but all candidates for the degree are strongly advised to carry on their work in residence either at Wellesley College, or in some institution of equal rank. The time of examination and the diploma fee are the same for resident and for non-resident students.

Circulars containing fuller information concerning graduate work will be forwarded on application. Correspondence with reference to graduate instruction should be addressed to the Chairman of the Committee on Graduate Instruction.

STUDENTSHIPS GIVING OPPORTUNITY FOR STUDY ELSEWHERE THAN AT WELLESLEY.

The American School of Classical Studies at Athens.

Wellesley College is a contributor to the support of this school, which was founded in 1882 by the Archæological Institute of America.

The object of the School is to afford opportunity for the study of classical Literature, Art, and Antiquities in Athens and Greek lands; to aid in original research in these subjects; and to conduct the exploration and excavation of classic sites.

The school year extends from October 1st to June 1st.

The regulations for admission are as follows: "Bachelors of Arts of co-operating colleges, and all Bachelors of Arts who have studied at one of these colleges as candidates for a higher degree, shall be admitted to membership in the School on presenting to the Committee a certificate from the classical department of the college at which they have last studied, stating that they are competent to pursue an independent course of study at Athens under the advice of the Director. Members of the School are subject to no charge for tuition."* Further information can be had by application to Professor Chapin, who represents Wellesley upon the Managing Committee of the School.

The Marine Biological Laboratory at Wood's Holl.

Wellesley College is a contributor to the support of the Marine Biological Laboratory at Wood's Holl,—a region especially rich in forms of marine life, both vegetable and animal. This laboratory, which is open during the summer for the study of marine life, affords opportunities both to investigators and to persons needing either instruction or direction.

In the department of Botany there are offered courses for the study of marine algæ, types of fungi, and the higher cryptogams.

In Zoölogy, regular courses of instruction are given in the anatomy of typical marine invertebrates and of the lower vertebrates. There is also a course in the embryology of fishes, which is fitted for advanced students.

Students in either Botany or Zoölogy who desire to undertake original work will receive suitable direction. In addition to these opportunities there are courses of lectures on special subjects, which are open to all students, and also evening lectures on subjects of general biological interest.

Wellesley College is entitled to appoint annually from one to three students, who are entitled to all the advantages of the Laboratory without expense for tuition. Applications for appointment to a studentship should state the character of the work to be done,—i. e., whether botanical or zoölogical, whether general work, investigation under direction, or independent investigation,—and should be forwarded to Professor Hallowell or Professor Willcox, in time to reach Wellesley before April 1st.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION.

The following Courses of Instruction are offered by the several departments, those from which undergraduates are excluded being marked with brackets. The College reserves the right to withdraw the offer of any elective study when not chosen by at least six students.

* A few Fellowships of $600 each are awarded by competitive examination.

† Withdrawn for the current year.
* Not offered in 1897–98.

III. NEW TESTAMENT.

2. The Historical Development of the Word of God in the New Testament. Open to juniors and seniors. Two hours per week for a year.

Mr. Drown.

The thought about Christ is traced from its earliest expression in the Church, through the Epistles of St. Paul and the synoptic Gospels, to its culmination in the Gospel of St. John.

3. The Regenerating Life of the Christ. Open to juniors. Two hours per week for a year.

Professor Morgan.

The Bible presentation of the history of man's degeneration, and of the beginning of regeneration through Jesus Christ. Interpretations through modern history and literature of the Scripture accounts; the basis of the Christian religion compared with the basis of other religions.

4. Life of Christ. Open to juniors and seniors. Two hours per week for a year.

Miss Locke.

This course includes an outline study of the life of Christ,—his land, people, and times,—and a special study of his teachings.

5. Greek Testament I. Life of Christ; text study of the Gospels; special study of the Gospel of St. John; lectures. An elective in Bible study for juniors. Open to students who have completed course 1 of classical Greek. Two hours per week for a year.

Professor Chapin.

†6. Greek Testament II. Life and writings of St. Paul; text study of the Acts and Epistles; lectures. An elective in Bible study for seniors. Open to students who have completed course 1 of classical Greek. Two hours per week for a year.

Professor Chapin.

†7. Sources of New Testament Greek in the Septuagint. Quotations from the Old Testament in the New; lectures. Illustrative readings, chiefly from the Psalms in Greek. Open to students who have taken Greek Testament I. One hour per week for a year.

Professor Chapin.

9. History of Christianity and the Christian Church during the first three centuries of the Christian Era. Open to juniors and seniors. Two hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Woolley.

10. History of Christianity and of the Christian Church from the fourth century, A.D., to the sixteenth. Open to seniors. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Woolley.

† Withdrawn for the current year.

VIII. ENGLISH LITERATURE.

1. Outline History of English Literature. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Jewett.

This course endeavors to trace briefly the history of the development of English literature from its beginning to the present. The historical work will be supplemented by critical study of a few masterpieces. A syllabus for this course is sold by the department.

2. English Prose to 1830: Critical Studies. Open to students who have taken or are taking course 1. Three hours per week for a year.

Dr. Bowen.

This course studies the variations in English prose style, traces the evolution of the novel, and follows the history of other literary forms, as the essay and the oration.

3. Spenser and the non-dramatic Poetry of the English Renaissance. Open to students who have taken or are taking course 1. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Scudder.

This course includes critical reading of all the poems of Spenser, and studies Spenser's genius in relation to earlier and later poets. Studies are made, by lecture and special topic, in the mediæval and Renaissance epics, allegorical, heroic, and romantic.

*4. Epic and Lyric Poetry in English Literature: Critical studies. Open to students who have taken or are taking course 1. Three hours per week for a year.

*5. American Literature. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. One hour per week for a year.

6. Victorian Prose. Open to students who have taken, as directed below, two previous courses. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Scudder.

The modern novel, from Dickens to Stevenson, is studied as a literary form and an expression of contemporary life. Representative men are considered in their biographies. Essayists from Carlyle to Pater are discussed in their criticism of art and society.

7. English Poetry of the XIX. Century. Open to students who have taken, as directed below, two previous courses. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Jewett.

This course considers the work of the greater Georgian and Victorian poets in their relation to one another and to contemporary movements, political, social, ethical and æsthetic. A syllabus of topics and references may be obtained from the department.

*Not offered in 1897–98.

8. English Literature of the XIV. Century. For conditions of entrance, see statement below. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Bates and Dr. Bowen.

This course includes the close study of a portion of Chaucer's work, with reading and discussion of the rest. The stages of his development are noted. Volume II. of the "Specimens of Early English," edited by Morris and Skeat, is supplemented by Skeat's edition of Langland's "Piers the Plowman" and by the publications of the Early English Text Society. A syllabus for the Chaucer work can be procured of the department.

9. English Drama through Shakespeare. For conditions of entrance, see statement below. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Bates.

This course attempts to trace the dramatic evolution from the Easter Mystery to Shakespeare, to observe the structure and artistic principles of the Elizabethan drama, and to study closely a few of Shakespeare's plays, with reading and discussion of the others. A syllabus sold by the department furnishes data for the work.

10. Historical Development of English Literature. For advanced students. For conditions of entrance, see statement below. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Scudder.

This course makes a comparative study of the great literary periods. The development of literary forms is traced, the interplay of native and foreign influences noted, and the chief men of each period are briefly studied in relation to the age. The aim of the work is to fill up gaps between other courses, and to give a rapid synthetic survey of English literature in its development.

*11. [Shelley and Browning. Seminary. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Scudder.]

12. [English Drama: Shakespeare's Successors. Seminary. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Bates.]

This course proposes the study of the Jacobean Drama, Restoration Drama, and the stage and closet drama of the last two centuries. The authors emphasized in the first division are Jonson, Beaumont and Fletcher, Massenger, Chapman, Ford, Webster, Milton; in the second, Dryden, Otway, Congreve; in the third, Steele, Goldsmith, Sheridan, Shelley, Landor, Swinburne, Browning. A syllabus sold by the department provides a working basis.

*14. English Masterpieces of the XIX. Century. Open only to seniors who have taken previously no full course in English Literature, or course 1 only. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Scudder.

*Not offered in 1897–98.

16. Old English Literature of the Anglo-Saxon and Anglo-Norman Periods. Open to freshmen only. Four hours per week for a year.

Dr. Bowen.

The purpose of this course is to study chosen masterpieces of English literature from the seventh to the fourteenth century. The Beowulf is read throughout, together with selections from the prose and other poetry.

17. The Life of the People as illustrated by English Literature. Open to all students except freshmen. One hour per week for a year.

Associate Professor Scudder.

A rapid survey is made in the first term of social pictures and ideals presented by representative authors in the Middle Ages, the Renaissance and the XVIII. Century. Selections are studied from Langland's Piers Plowman, Sir Thomas More's Utopia, Swift's Gulliver's Travels. A more detailed study is made of the awakening of the social conscience in the great Victorian essayists, Carlyle, Ruskin, Matthew Arnold, and William Morris, and in the chief novelists of the period.

18. American Authors. Open only to seniors who have taken previously no full course in English Literature, or course 1 only. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Bates.

The subjects for 1897–98 will be American Idealism, studied chiefly in the writings of Emerson and Hawthorne; American Realism, studied chiefly in the writings of Howells and James; and American Democracy, studied chiefly in the writings of Lowell and Whitman.

The courses are elective, with the following restrictions:—

Students proposing to elect a single full course must take 1, with the exception of seniors desiring course 14 or 18, and of freshmen, to whom 16 is the only course open.

Students proposing to elect two courses only, should take 1, followed by one of the courses designed for the training of the literary sense, 2, or 3, or 4, with the exception of seniors desiring course 14 or 18.

Students proposing a three-course major should take the initial historical course 1; then one of the courses for literary training, 2, or 3, or 4, and finally one of the courses presenting a literary epoch, 6, or 7, or 8, or 9.

Students proposing a four-course major should take either of the following combinations, 16, 8, 9, 6, or 7; or 8, 9, 6, or 7, 10

The seminaries are open to graduates, and, rarely, to approved undergraduates and special students.

Either half of any one of courses 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, may be taken as a complete semester course, by permission of the department.

IX. PHILOSOPHY.

1. Psychology as Introductory to the Philosophy of Art; Studies in Æsthetics. and Ethics. Open to juniors and seniors, and to sophomores by permission of the department. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Morgan.

For students who have already completed a course in psychology, special topics selected from course 2, or from Martineau's Types of Ethical Theory, will be substituted for the already familiar psychology in course 1.

*2. The Philosophy of the Beautiful and History of Æsthetics. Open to juniors and seniors. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Morgan.

Hegel's theory regarding beauty compared with other phases in the history of æsthetics; psychological investigation of the nature of imagination, with verification in the biographies of artists; application of principles of æsthetics studied in a series of compositions selected from each of the several arts: Architecture, Sculpture, Painting, Music, and Literature.

3. The Regenerating Life of the Christ. Open to juniors and seniors. Two hours per week for a year.

Professor Morgan.

The Bible presentation of the history of man's degeneration, and of the beginning of regeneration through Jesus Christ. Interpretations through modern history and literature of the Scripture accounts; the basis of the Christian religion compared with the basis of other religions.

*12. The Philosophy of Religion derived through Studies in the History of Religions. Open to students prepared by a general elementary course in Philosophy. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Morgan.

Psychological investigation of the religious instincts and intuitions; the evolution of systems of religion; discussion of theories proposed to account for the differentiation of the historic types of religion; the embodiment of the national religion of Greece in mythology and art; the characteristics of Christianity in which it differs from all other religions.

4. Logic. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Three hours per week for the first semester.

Associate Professor Case.

Text-book: Fowler's Logic. Problems in argumentation and criticism.

5. Ethics on the Basis of Psychology. Open to juniors and seniors, and to sophomores by permission of the department. Three hours per week for a year. The work of the second semester may be taken without that of the first by students who have taken, or are taking, course 1, or 6, or 7.

Associate Professor Ritchie.

First semester: Study of the phenomena and the laws of mind; second semester: lectures on ethical systems; discussion of the application of ethical principles to the problems of individual and of social life. Text-books: Titchener's Outline of Psychology and Mackenzie's Manual of Ethics.

* Not offered in 1897–98.

16. Social Philosophy. Open to students who have taken, or are taking, course 1, or 5, or 6, or 7. Three hours per week for the second semester.

Associate Professor Case.

Lectures, reports of collateral reading. Preliminary study of social psychology; lectures on the development of society, on social institutions, and on the relation of society to its environment.

6. Psychology as Propaedeutic to Philosophy. Open to juniors and seniors, and to sophomores by permission of the department. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Case.

General survey of the field of psychology. Exercises in psychological analysis; study of elementary problems in philosophy; lectures on the relations of the various departments of philosophy to one another and to psychology. Text-book: Baldwin's Elements of Psychology.

7. Experimental Psychology. Open to juniors and seniors, and to sophomores by permission from the department. Three hours per week for a year. By permission of the instructor the work of the second semester may be taken without that of the first.

Associate Professor Calkins, Mr. Lough.

Lectures and discussions of the facts, the classifications, and the theories of psychology. Laboratory work under supervision; experiments in sensation, space-perception, and reaction-times, and in attention, association, and memory. Text-books: Titchener's Outline of Psychology and Sanford's Course in Experimental Psychology. Additional reading from Locke, Berkeley, Hume, Mill, and contemporary psychologists.

15. Advanced Psychology. Open to students by permission of the instructor. Three hours per week for a year. The work of the first semester may be taken without that of the second.

Associate Professor Calkins, Mr. Lough.

Lectures and discussions on the basis of James's Principles of Psychology, Wundt's Grundzüge or Külpe's Psychology, and selected chapters and essays from psychological monographs and journals. Experimental investigation of special topics continued through the year.

8. General history of Philosophy. Open to students who have taken, or are taking, course 1 or 5 or 6 or 7. Three hours per week for a year. By permission of the instructor the work of either semester may be taken without that of the other.

Associate Professor Case.

Lectures on the development of thought in Europe, collateral reading, class discussions, occasional essays. First semester: ancient and mediæval philosophy; second semester: modern philosophy. Reference to various histories of philosophy, especially to those of Zeller, Burnet, Windelband, Erdmann, Schwegler, and Weber. Selections from Plato (Theaetetus entire), Descartes, Leibnitz, Berkeley, and Kant.

9. British and German Philosophy of the XVII. and XVIII. Centuries. Open to students who have taken, or are taking, course 1 or 5 or 6 or 7. Three hours per week for a year. By permission of the instructor the work of the second semester may be taken without that of the first.

Associate Professor Calkins.

Lectures and discussions. Text study of Locke's Essay concerning Human Understanding (in part); Berkeley's Principles of Human Knowledge; Hume's Treatise on Human Nature, Book I.; Kant's Critique of Pure Reason; Fichte's Science of Knowledge (selections), or Hegel's Philosophy of Mind (in part). An essay from each student on some topic of the Critique of Pure Reason.

10. Greek Philosophy. Open to students who have taken, or are taking, course 8 or 9. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Ritchie.

Lectures, reports of special study, discussions. Text study of fragments of pre-Socratic philosophers (Ritter and Preller and Burnet); of Plato (Jowett's translation): Theaetetus, Phædo, Sophist, Parmenides (in part), Symposium, Phædrus and Republic; of Aristotle: Metaphysics (Bonitz or MacMahon), books 1, 6, 7, 8, 10 and 11, Nicomachean Ethics (Welldon), books 1–4 and 10; Psychology (Watson). Brief study of later Greek Philosophy.

*11. German Philosophy. Open to students who have taken, or are taking, course 8 or 9. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Calkins.

Lectures, reports of special study, discussion. Text study of Leibnitz: Monadology and New Essays (in part); of Kant: selected essays and letters of the pre-critical period, Critique of Pure Reason, with comparison of editions 1 and 2, Metaphysic of Ethics, Critique of Practical Reason, Critique of Judgment (selections); of Fichte: Lectures on the Science of Knowledge, edition of 1794 (with individual study of the later works); of Schelling: Vom Ich, or selections from the Transcendentale Idealismus; of Hegel: selections from the Philosophy of Mind or from the Logic.

Either the Kantian or the post-Kantian part of this course may be extended to occupy most of the time.

It is not expected that courses 10 and 11 will both be given in the same year.

13. Philosophical Seminary. Open to students by special permission from the instructor. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Ritchie.

Subject of the course varied from year to year; in 1897–98, the Ethics of Plato, Aristotle, Kant, and Hegel.

Candidates for the Bachelor's degree must select the course required in philosophy from the four numbered 1, 5, 6, 7.

*Not offered in 1897–98.

X. HISTORY AND ECONOMICS.

1. HISTORY AND POLITICAL SCIENCE.

‡1. Political History of England to 1603. Open to freshmen, sophomores, and juniors, and to seniors who have taken no college course in history. Freshmen four hours, all others three hours, per week for the first semester.

Associate Professor Kendall.

‡2. Political History of England from 1603 to the present time. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors, and to freshmen who have completed course 1, or who offered English History as an entrance subject. Freshmen four hours, all others three hours, per week for the second semester.

Associate Professor Kendall.

Emphasis is placed on the political, social, and industrial conditions in relation to race development.

‡3. History of France from the Roman conquest to the Peace of Utrecht. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Three hours per week for a year.

Miss Scofield.

This course furnishes an outline of mediæval and early modern history, and deals with the simpler political and social problems. It aims to train students in methods of historical work, and to furnish a background for detailed study of particular epochs.

4. History of the French Revolution. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Coman.

This course involves (1) an introductory discussion of the causes of the Revolution as developed in the reign of Louis XV.; (2) a detailed study of the progress of the Revolution and of the reaction against democratic tyranny culminating in Imperialism; (3) an inquiry into the influence of revolutionary ideas in the subsequent history of France, Germany, Italy, Spain and Russia.

5. Constitutional History of England to 1601. Open to juniors and seniors. Three hours per week for the first semester.

Miss Scofield.

A study of the origin and early development of the English constitution. Stubbs is the principal authority. The class has recourse to the text of charters and laws.

‡ Courses 1 and 2, or 3, are prerequisite to later election.

6. Constitutional History of England from the accession of the Stuarts. Open to juniors and seniors. Three hours per week for the second semester.

Miss Scofield.

A study of the later development of the English constitution, the rise of party and cabinet government, and the establishment of popular control.

7. History of the United States from 1787. Open to juniors and seniors. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Kendall.

A study of the formation and development of the constitution of the United States, with especial reference to controlling forces, such as the organization of parties, the growth of democracy, the rise of the slave power, the political effects of the development of the West. The exercises consist of lectures by the instructor and reports by the students on topics assigned for individual study.

*8. Mediæval Institutions. Open only to students who shall satisfy the instructor of their fitness for the work. Three hours per week for a year.

Dr. Henderson.

The course will consist partially of lectures, but chiefly of the discussion of papers to be written by the students. The period covered will be from Charlemagne to the Peace of Westphalia. A knowledge of German as well as of Latin will be of advantage.

9. History of Modern Germany from the Reformation to the present day, with special attention to the reign of Frederick the Great and to the work of Bismarck. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Three hours per week for a year.

Dr. Henderson.

This course will be conducted by lecture, but special topics will be assigned the students on which independent work will be expected. A working knowledge of the German language will be of great use.

*10. Origin of American institutions. Open to students who have taken courses 5 and 6 or 7. Three hours per week for the first semester.

Associate Professor Kendall.

The aim of this course is the investigation of the origin and early development of American institutions, based on a study of original sources. To each student will be assigned a topic for special investigation. The exercises will consist of lectures by the instructor and the analysis and discussion of important documents by the class.

11. Political Science. Open to juniors and seniors. Three hours per week for the first semester.

Associate Professor Kendall.

This is an introductory course in the comparative study of the origin, character, development, and aim of political institutions. The work will take the form of lectures and discussions, with parallel readings. In addition, each member of the class will be expected to write a thesis on some subject assigned to her for special study.

*Not offered in 1897–98.

*12. Constitutional Law of the United States. Open to students who have taken courses 5 and 6 or 7. Three hours per week for the second semester.

Associate Professor Kendall.

The work of this course is based on a study of selected cases illustrating and interpreting the constitution. Lectures by the instructor will give a general view of the principles of American constitutional government. In addition, there will be class-room discussions of controverted points.

II. ECONOMICS.

1. Elements of Economics. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Three hours per week for the first semester.

Professor Coman, Miss Balch.

An introductory course, designed to train the student to apprehend and analyze industrial phenomena.

2. Industrial History of the United States. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors who have had course 1. Three hours per week for the second semester.

Professor Coman.

A study of the national development in its material and social aspects, accompanied by a critical review of our economic legislation, commercial and financial.

*3. Industrial History of England. Open to juniors and seniors who have taken courses 1 and 2. Three hours per week for the first semester.

Professor Coman.

A study of the successive phases of industrial organization, with a view to tracing this aspect of social evolution.

4. Socialism. Open to juniors and seniors who have had courses 1 and 5, or 8. Three hours per week for the second semester.

Professor Coman.

This course involves (1) an inquiry into the origin of the movement toward social and industrial reconstruction in the theories of Rousseau and the aspirations of the French Revolution; (2) a discussion of the influence of Saint-Simon and the social Utopias of Cabet, Fourrier, and Owen; (3) a study of contemporary socialism, as represented in the writings of Carl Marx and in the industrial revolutions organized by Louis Blanc and Lasalle.

5. Statistical study of certain economic problems in the industrial history of the United States. Open to juniors and seniors who have had courses 1 and 2. Three hours per week for the first semester.

Professor Coman.

The course is introduced by lectures on the principles of statistical research. Each member of the class undertakes the investigation of a particular problem, and reports the results of her inquiry to the class. The graphic method of presenting statistical results is emphasized. No single authority can be recommended. The United States Census, the Census of Massachusetts, the statistical reports of the Treasury Department, the reports of the National and State Labor Bureaus, furnish the statistical data.

*Not offered in 1897–98.

6. Social Economics I. Open to juniors and seniors who have had courses 1 and 2. Three hours per week for the first semester.

Miss Balch.

A study of the defective, dependent, and delinquent classes, accompanied by discussion of methods of dealing with each.

7. Social Economics II. Open to juniors and seniors who have had courses 1 and 2. Three hours per week for the second semester.

Miss Balch.

A discussion of methods of meeting certain normal social needs, such as sanitation, housing, household economy, education, recreation, and thrift.

8. The Evolution and Present Conditions of Wage-labor. Open to students who have had courses 1 and 2. Three hours per week for the first semester.

Miss Balch.

A review of the origin of the wage relation between capital and labor will be followed by a detailed discussion of contemporary problems, especially as represented in the United States.

XI. PURE MATHEMATICS.

1. Required course for freshmen. Four hours per week for a year.
   (a) Solid and Spherical Geometry (Byerly's Chauvenet). Three hours, first semester.
   (b) Higher Algebra (Hayes). One hour, first semester; two hours, second semester.
   (c) Plane Trigonometry. Two hours, second semester.

   Associate Professor Chandler, Miss Merrill, Miss Denis, Miss Kelsey.

2. Elements of Determinants; Plane Analytical Geometry (C. Smith). Open to students who have had course 1. Three hours per week for a year.

   Acting Professor Burrell, Associate Professor Chandler.

3. Differential and Integral Calculus (Osborne); History of Mathematics. Open to students who have had course 2. Three hours per week for a year.

   Acting Professor Burrell.

4. Theory of Equations, with Determinants (Burnside and Panton). Open to students who have had course 3. Three hours per week, first semester.

   Associate Professor Chandler.

5. Solid Analytical Geometry (C. Smith). Open to students who have haa course 3. Three hours per week, second semester.

Associate Professor Chandler.

8. Projective Geometry. Open to seniors who have had course 2; and to juniors by permission of the instructor. Three hours per week for a year.

Acting Professor Burrell.

A lecture course, following the general method of Reye's Geometrie der Lage.

†10. Differential Equations. Open to students who have had course 4. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Chandler.

XII. APPLIED MATHEMATICS.

1. Elementary Mechanics. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Hayes.

†2. Elementary Mathematical Astronomy. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Three hours per week for the first semester.

Professor Hayes.

The course forms a suitable basis for further study in astronomy, either mathematical or general. Text-book: Barlow and Bryan's Elementary Mathematical Astronomy.

3. Thermodynamics. Open to students who have had course 1. Three hours per week for the second semester.

Professor Hayes.

Lectures designed to accompany Maxwell's Theory of Heat.

†4. Theoretical Mechanics; advanced course. Open to students who have had course 1. Three hours per week for the first semester.

Professor Hayes.

In connection with this course a series of lectures will be given on the history of mathematics in its relation to science.

†5. Geodynamics. Open to seniors properly qualified. Three hours per week for the second semester.

Professor Hayes.

The chief subjects treated are: Precession, Nutation; Form, Size, Density of the Earth; Thermal condition of the Earth, Tides, Isostasy.

† Withdrawn for the current year.

6. Theoretical Astronomy. Open to students who have had courses 1 and 2. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Hayes.

Theory of the determination of orbits; determination of a parabolic orbit. Method of Least Squares; Perturbations.

Text-book: Watson's Theoretical Astronomy. For reference: Gauss's Theoria Motus; Oppolzer's Lehrbuch zur Bahnbestimmung; Dziobek's Planetenbewegungen.

7. Principles of Inference. Open to juniors and seniors. One hour per week for a year.

Professor Hayes.

A course in logic especially designed for students of mathematics and science. Material for study will be drawn from masterpieces of scientific writing and from current scientific literature.

XIII. CHEMISTRY.

1. General Chemistry. Open to all undergraduates. Freshmen four hours per week for a year. All other students, three hours per week for a year.

Professor Roberts, Associate Professor Bragg.

Course 1 is for beginners in Chemistry, and is intended to familiarize the student with the important properties of the elements—especially the non-metallic ones—and their compounds, with their modes of preparation, and with such tests as shall lead up to the study of systematic Qualitative Analysis; also to present the laws governing chemical reactions, the meaning of chemical equations, and the more recent theories adopted in the science.

All of the more simple experiments are performed by the student herself in the laboratory.

2. Qualitative Analysis. Open to students who have completed course 1. Three hours per week for the first semester.

Associate Professor Bragg.

This course supplements course 1 by presenting the properties and characteristic reactions of the metallic elements. Practical methods of separating and recognizing the elements present in simple mixtures are taught, and the progress of the student is constantly tested by the examination of commonly occurring substances, the exact composition of which is unknown to the student.

3. Organic Chemistry. Open to students who have completed course 1. Three hours per week for the second semester.

Associate Professor Bragg.

This course is necessarily brief, and is limited to the study of the characteristics of the most common classes of the carbon compounds, these characteristics being illustrated in the laboratory or lecture room by the behavior of some well-known representative of each class.

4. Qualitative Analysis. Open to students who have completed course 1. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Roberts.

5. Quantitative Analysis. Open to students who have completed course 2 or 4. Three hours per week for the second semester.

Dr. Fairbanks.

In this course a few typical processes involving both volumetric and gravimetric methods will be taught, to illustrate general principles of Quantitative Analysis.

*6. Advanced Quantitative Analysis. Open to students who have completed course 5. Three hours per week for the first semester.

This course is a continuation of course 5, and deals with more special methods of work and practical applications.

7. Organic Chemistry, with laboratory work in organic preparations. Open to students who have completed two years' work in Chemistry. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Roberts.

8. Theoretical Chemistry. Open to students who have completed course 1. Three hours per week for the first semester.

Professor Roberts.

†9. Stereo-Chemistry and Laboratory work in connection with Theoretical Chemistry. Open to students who have completed courses 7 and 8. Three hours per week for the second semester.

Professor Roberts, Associate Professor Bragg.

XIV. PHYSICS AND PHYSICAL ASTRONOMY.

1. General Physics. Open to all undergraduates. Four hours per week for a year for freshmen; three hours per week for a year for all others.

Professor Whiting, Miss Evans.

This course is intended for students who are beginning Physics, and is similar to the alternative course which may be offered for entrance, consisting of lectures preparatory to experiments performed by the student. The subjects treated are: Mechanics, Sound, Light, Heat, and Electricity.

3. Sound, Heat, Light, and Electricity. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors who have had course 1, or an approved course in a secondary school. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Whiting.

The course is intended, by experimental work and consultation of original memoirs, to acquaint the student with the methods of original investigation: also to give practice in the preparation of subjects and their presentation before others, with suitable illustration.

The course is desirable for all who wish to prepare to teach Physics.

* Not offered in 1897–98.

† Withdrawn for the current year.

†4. Light, and other selected subjects, mathematically treated. Open to seniors who have had Analytical Geometry and Calculus. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Whiting.

†5. Electricity. Open to students who have had course 1. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Whiting.

6. Meteorology. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Three hours per week for the first semester.

Professor Whiting.

Text-book: Davis's Meteorology. The course is accompanied by constant reference to original papers, by the solution of inductive problems from the weather maps and records of observations. Familiarity is gained with the use of standard instruments, including the self-recording thermometer, barograph, anemometer, and anemoscope.

7. Physical Astronomy. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Three hours per week for the second semester.

Professor Whiting.

The lectures are accompanied by frequent observations of the heavens with a telescope. Spectroscopic astronomy is illustrated by laboratory work with the sun spectrum and the spark spectrum.

An elementary course in Physics, either in college or in a secondary school, is prerequisite to courses 6 and 7.

XV. GEOLOGY AND MINERALOGY.

1. Geology. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Niles, Miss Fisher.

Lectures, recitations, and field-work. Subjects treated: advanced Physical Geography, Dynamical Geology, Structural and Historical Geology.

2. Mineralogy. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Three hours per week for the first semester.

Miss Fisher.

Lectures and recitations. Laboratory study of sets of specimens of the more important mineral species. Blow-pipe analysis. A reference collection is always available for students' use.

XVI. BOTANY.

1. General Morphology and Principles of Classification. Open to all undergraduates. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Hallowell, Associate Professor Cummings, Associate Professor Cooley.

Exercises in elementary Vegetable Physiology. A herbarium of fifty species is required.

†Withdrawn for the current year.

2. Cryptogamic Botany. Open to students who have taken course 1. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Cummings.

Study of types of all the more important groups of flowerless plants, preceded by a brief course in elementary Vegetable Histology.

3. Systematic Botany (advanced work) and Economic Botany. Open to students who have taken course 1. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Hallowell.

This course includes special study of the more difficult orders of flowering plants, with mosses and ferns; determination of dried specimens; report upon the flora of some assigned locality; and investigation of the useful products of plants. A paper is required on some important order not studied in class, illustrated by specimens collected in the vicinity.

*4. Medical Botany. Open to students who have taken courses 1 and 2. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Cooley.

Microscopical examination of the typical and important roots, rhizomes, stems, leaves, barks, and fruits of the Pharmacopœia.

This course is intended to give familiarity with the botanical characters of the more common medicinal plants, thus aiding in the identification of the crude drugs derived from them, and in the detection of adulterations. The active principles of such drugs, and peculiar modes of action, are also investigated.

5. Vegetable Histology and Physiology; Microscopy. Open to students who have taken courses 1 and 2. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Hallowell.

Cell structure and the study of tissues; practical experiments and original investigations. Twenty-five mounted slides are required.

A knowledge of the elements of Physics and Chemistry is very desirable for this course.

*6. Plant Biology. Open to students who have taken courses 1 and 2. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Cummings.

Gross anatomy, histology, and physiology of a series of plants, considered as types, proceeding from the simpler to the more complex organisms. Special attention will be given to tracing the development of organs and the evolution of forms.

*7. Embryology and other special topics. Open to students who have taken courses 1, 2, and 5. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Hallowell.

This course is to be pursued with a view to original research and a thorough acquaintance with the literature of the subject.

*8. Advanced Cryptogamic Botany. Systematic study of any chosen group or groups of Cryptogams. Open to students who have taken courses 1 and 2. Three hours per week for a year.

Associate Professor Cummings.

*Not offered in 1897–98.

Candidates for courses 7 and 8 should have a good reading knowledge of French and German.

The instruction in all courses of the Botanical Department is given through practical work in the laboratory, accompanied by explanatory lectures. Three appointments per week, one hour and a half each.

Students sketch all the objects studied.

Instructors and students meet statedly for the discussion of recent discoveries in botanical science.

XVII. ZOÖLOGY AND PHYSIOLOGY.

1. General Biology. Open to freshmen and sophomores. Freshmen four hours, all other students three hours per week for a year. Each classroom exercise followed by a laboratory appointment.

Miss Hubbard.

Brief series of lectures on the laws and principles which govern all life, whether plant or animal, illustrated partly by laboratory work and partly by out-of-door study of living things in their natural conditions and surroundings; detailed study of the anatomy and biology of the crayfish and of the bean, and a comparison between the two; brief comparative study of a unicellular plant, a mould, a moss, a fern, a unicellular animal, hydra, a leech, a snail.

This course is intended to train students in habits of observation and in methods of work, and, laying stress on the points of agreement between plants and animals, to make clear the fundamental unity of all living things.

2. General Zoölogy. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Three hours per week for a year. Each classroom exercise followed by a laboratory appointment.

Dr. Claypole.

Comparative study of all the great groups (types) of animals, beginning with unicellular organisms and concluding with mammals. Also a brief study of the embryology of the salamander.

This course is intended to give familiarity with the outlines of animal structure and to present the morphological argument for evolution.

Courses 1 and 2 together will meet the admission requirement in biology of the Johns Hopkins Medical School.

3. Anatomy of the Cat. Open to students who have taken course 2. Three hours per week for the first semester.

Dr. Claypole.

This course is intended to train students in careful dissection. It is especially fitted for those who intend to study medicine. Constant reference will be made to human anatomy, and a considerable lightening of the ordinary course in that subject in a medical school can be effected by taking this work.

4. Embryology of the Chick. Open to students who have taken course 2. Three hours per week for the second semester.

Dr. Claypole.

This course follows closely the lines of Foster and Balfour's "Elements of Embryology." Instruction is given in the methods of preparing and mounting embryos, making serial sections, and so forth.

*5. Systematic Zoölogy. Open to students who have taken course 2. Three hours per week for a year.

Mr. Morse.

Classification of animals; study of habits; readings in natural history; excursions to neighboring museums.

*6. Philosophical Zoölogy. Open, under the advice of the Professor, to students who have taken course 2. Three hours per week for a year.

Professor Willcox.

Readings and discussions of Darwin, Spencer, Wallace, Weismann, and kindred authors. One careful paper on a biological subject prepared by each student.

*7. Pedagogics of Zoölogy. Open to students who have taken two courses in Zoölogy. Three hours per week for one semester.

Professor Willcox.

Discussion of various methods of teaching zoölogy. Practice in working up and presenting lectures on given topics. Training in the use of reference books and original authorities. Students must be able to work independently, as a small amount only of supervision will be provided.

9. Animal Histology and Histological Technique. Open to students who have taken course 2. Three hours per week, also three laboratory appointments per week, for a year.

Miss Claypole.

Lectures on cellular histology and physiology. Laboratory work, including study of prepared specimens and methods of histological preparation. Student lectures. A small piece of individual investigation is required of each student.

The first semester of this course may, with the advice of the department, be taken independently, or combined with course 4 instead of with the second half of course 9.

10. General Physiology. Open to juniors and seniors. Three hours per week, also three laboratory appointments per week, for a year.

Miss Claypole.

Lectures and laboratory work dealing with experimental and theoretical questions in physiology, such as the structure and action of muscle, nerves, blood vessels, the heart, blood, the formation and action of digestive juices, excretion, metabolism, the special sense organs, the brain, etc. Each student arranges and uses the apparatus necessary for almost all experiments; but some of the more difficult are performed by the instructor, assisted in turn by the different members of the class.

Apparatus needed by students in this Department.—Microscopes, reagents, etc., are provided by the College. A limited number of sets of dissecting instruments are owned by the College, and may be rented for a small fee.

HYGIENE.

1. Physiology and Hygiene. Required of freshmen. One hour per week for a year.

Miss Sherrard.

Lectures, demonstrations, and quizzes.

* Not offered in 1897–98.

XVIII. * DOMESTIC SCIENCE.

The course consists of lectures and practical work. The lectures treat of the house, and its foundations and surroundings from a sanitary, as well as architectural standpoint; the mechanical apparatus of the house, heating, lighting, ventilation, drainage, including methods of testing their efficiency; furnishing and general care of a house, including what might be called applied physiology, chemistry of food and nutrition, and the chemistry of cleaning; food and clothing of a family; relation of domestic service to the general question of labor, with a discussion of present conditions and proposed reforms.

The practical work includes visits of inspection, accompanied by the instructor, to houses in process of construction, of good and bad types, both old and new; visits to homes where the housekeeper has put in practice some or all of the theories of modern sanitary and economic living; conferences with successful and progressive housekeepers; practical work in the laboratory. A knowledge of chemistry and physics is essential.

XIX. PEDAGOGICS.

1. Pedagogics and Didactics. Open to seniors, three hours per week for a year.

Dr. Prince.

The history of educational theories. The chief educational works of Bacon, Montaigne, Comenius, Locke, Rousseau, Pestalozzi, Herbart, Frœbel, and Spencer, will be read by the student, and past and present theories of education compared in a series of papers.

The science and art of education. Lectures on the philosophy of education. Study of child nature, and the laws of its development. Discussion of principles underlying the science and art of education, and of current educational problems.

The art of teaching and government. Lectures on the theory and practice of teaching. Methods of teaching the rudiments. Special attention given to the kindergarten system. Methods of government and instruction in primary, intermediate, and higher school grades. Discussions on the practical exemplification of principles. "Development Lessons" given by members of the class, and criticised by instructor and students.

The library contains the chief German and English works on the science and art of education, a small collection of text-books, and the most important periodicals.

In addition to course 1, special instruction in methods of teaching sciences, languages, philosophy, and history will be offered in various departments.

XX. BIBLIOGRAPHY.

1. Bibliography. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. One hour per week for a year.

Miss Godfrey.

This course aims to familiarize the student with the best bibliographical works and with library methods and catalogues; to teach the best method of reaching the literature of a special subject, and to furnish important bibliographical lists likely to prove valuable in future study. It will prove especially helpful taken in connection with courses 2, 6, 7, 9, 12 in English literature, courses 2, 7, 8, 9 in philosophy, and in all courses in history, economics, and the history of art.

* Not offered in 1897–98.

XXI. ELOCUTION.

1. Training of the Body and Voice. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors, and to freshmen by special permission. Two hours per week for a year.

Miss Bennett.

Body; poise and bearing. Voice; correct method of breathing, etc. Reading with special reference to a good use of the voice. Recitations.

2. Training of the Body and Voice. Expression. Open to students who have taken course 1, or an equivalent course. Two hours per week for a year.

Miss Bennett.

Voice culture; exercises for freedom of body; gesture; recitations from the best authors; reading at sight.

3. Shakespearean Reading. Open to students who have taken courses 1 and 3, and who have taken, or are taking, literature 9; others at the discretion of the instructor. Two hours per week for a year.

Miss Bennett.

Scenes selected for memorizing.

XXII. ART.

3. Introductory Course. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Three hours per week for a year.

(a) Anatomy; Perspective; Talks on Current Art Topics. First and second semesters.

Professor Brown.

(b) History of Florentine Painting. First semester.

Miss Jones.

(c) History of Ornament. Second semester.

Mr. C. Howard Walker, Miss Child.

In the History of Florentine Painting, after a rapid survey of the development of early Christian Art, study is especially directed to Cimabue, Giotto, Masaccio, and Botticelli, as central figures for comparison with other masters.

The history of ornament covers the development of the following styles: Egyptian, Assyrian, Greek, Roman, Byzantine, Romanesque, Gothic, Renaissance.

All students in course 3 are required to give four hours weekly throughout the year to laboratory work: examining, comparing, and sketching from the photographs used in illustration, and drawing in the studio with reference to the same work. Previous preparation in drawing is not required, but it is desirable that all students who intend to take courses in Art should be prepared to present specimens of any drawing that they may have done. All laboratory work is under the immediate supervision of Professor Brown. The Art Library and Art Laboratories are open to students from nine to four daily.

This department is prepared to offer advanced courses in the combined history and practice of art, as students shall present themselves who are fitted to take up these courses.

1. Outlines of Greek Art with especial reference to Architecture and Ceramics. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Three hours per week for the first semester.

Dr. Walton.

2. Greek Sculpture. Open to students who have taken course 1. Three hours per week for the second semester.

Dr. Walton.

4. Greek Mythology as Illustrated in Ancient Art. Open to students who have completed course 2, or two full courses in Greek, and to others upon consultation. One hour per week for the year.

Dr. Walton.

XXIII. MUSIC.

Candidates for the B.A. degree may take music throughout their course, but five years will in this case be required to complete it. Such students may select any one of three courses of instruction,—the Pianoforte, the Organ, or the Voice. Lessons on the harp, violin, viola, and violoncello are subject to special arrangements.

Students in the regular musical course may devote all their time to music, except that which is given to two academic studies and the required course in Bible. Candidates for admission to this course must meet requirements I., II., III., IV., pp. 22, 23, 24, and must also present the maximum preparation in either Latin, Greek, French, or German.

Special students may arrange for courses combining greater or less amounts of music and academic work. The requirements for admission are the same as for the regular musical course.

Those who are suitably qualified may pursue musical studies exclusively, without being otherwise connected with the College. For such students special arrangements will be made.

The Department of Music occupies Music Hall, which contains thirty-eight music rooms, and a hall for lectures and choral singing. Thirty-seven pianos and two organs are furnished for the use of students. The Chapel Organ, presented by Mr. W. O. Grover, has three manuals, each of sixty-one notes, a pedal of thirty notes, and twenty-six speaking registers. It contains 1,584 pipes.

Certificate.

Any student in the College who completes any one of the following courses of study will receive the certificate of the department of music.

A. Piano: two lessons a week for five years,* with four periods of practice daily for five days each week.‡
Harmony: Courses 1 and 2.
Musical History.
Academic Subjects, one of which shall be a modern language; six hours a week throughout the course.
Bible Study: four one-hour courses.

B. Organ: two lessons a week, with daily practice as in piano study, for five years.*
The remainder of the course is the same as Course A, omitting piano.

C. Voice: two lessons a week, with daily practice as in piano study, for five years.* In other respects this course is like Course A, omitting the piano, except that one year of Italian is required. It is desirable to take the Italian as early as possible, that the benefit of the study may be had throughout the course.

Violin, Viola, Violoncello, Harp, or any orchestral instrument, may be made a specialty instead of the above-mentioned principal studies.
Full details are appended.

☞Students intending to apply for a certificate in the musical course must give at least a year's notice. Voice and Organ Students are not obliged to spend the required four periods upon their specialty alone, but may combine with that some other branch of musical study.

PIANO.

Those who make piano their specialty, and wish to obtain a certificate in that course, should, upon entering, be familiar with correct phrasing, staccato and legato touch, the ordinary musical signs, and their application; should show technical proficiency, and should present the following work or its equivalent: Czerny, Op. 299, three books; Loeschhorn, Op. 66, three books; Bach, Preludes; and two or three Sonatas by Haydn and Mozart.

Students who are not able to meet the above requirements, may enter a preparatory course. Those who are more advanced upon entering, may be able to complete the course in less than five years.

*Students who have at the time of entering a considerable knowledge of music may be able to complete the work necessary for a certificate in less than five years.

‡Candidates for the B.A. degree who take music, practice two periods daily; students in the regular musical course, four periods.

COURSE OF STUDY FOR THE PIANOFORTE.

The course will be adapted to the particular needs of the student; but will be arranged, furthermore, so that the student, upon its completion, shall have a fundamental knowledge of the best works in pianoforte literature: Bach, Händel, Mozart, Haydn, Beethoven, Schubert, Schumann, Weber, Mendelssohn, and Chopin, as well as the different schools of modern writers.

Attention will also be given to four-hand playing; and, for those who are sufficiently advanced, to playing with other instruments.

ORGAN.

A satisfactory knowledge of pianoforte technique is prerequisite to the study of organ playing.

The course consists of systematic drill in organ technique, special exercises in playing church music, and careful study of works by the best composers, representing the different schools of organ music.

A shorter course may be arranged for students desiring to limit themselves to the work of a church organist.

MUSICAL THEORY.

Students entering upon a course in this subject must have acquired a knowledge of piano-playing as far as Czerny, Op. 299, and the easier sonatas of Haydn and Mozart, or their equivalents.

1. Elements of Harmony. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Three hours per week for a year.

Mrs. Stovall.

The study of notation, rhythm, scales, intervals, chords (their construction, relations and progressions), modulation and inharmonic tones.

2. Advanced Harmony and Musical Form. Open to students who have completed course 1. Three hours per week for a year.

Mrs. Stovall.

NEEDS OF THE COLLEGE.

The attention of all who appreciate the influence of educated and refined women, is called to the immediate needs of Wellesley College. The College is now established on such a firm basis that it can with confidence appeal to the public for aid.

Hundreds of Wellesley students are already doing good work as teachers, and every year since the College opened, missionaries have gone forth from Wellesley to home or foreign fields of work.

The urgent needs of the College at present are the following :—

1. Unrestricted funds for defraying general expenses.
2. Additional cottages.
3. A scientific building.
4. A gymnasium building.
5. The endowment of the presidency and professorships.
6. The endowment of the Departments of Music and Art.
7. The further equipment of the Department of Art with casts, pictures, engravings, and models.

FORMS OF BEQUEST.

I give and bequeath to the Trustees of Wellesley College the sum of ——— thousand dollars, to be appropriated by the Trustees for the benefit of the College in such manner as they shall think will be most useful.

I give and bequeath to the Trustees of Wellesley College the sum of ——— thousand dollars, to be safely invested by them, and called the ——— Scholarship Fund. The interest of this fund shall be applied to aid deserving students in Wellesley College.

I give and bequeath to the Trustees of Wellesley College the sum of ——— thousand dollars, to be safely invested by them, and called the ——— Endowment Fund. The interest shall be applied to the payment of the salaries of teachers in Wellesley College, as the Trustees shall deem expedient.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Information in regard to entrance examinations and preparatory schools will be given by Miss E. F. PENDLETON, Secretary of the College. Applications for Calendars, blanks, documents, concerning admission to College, and for all general information, should also be addressed to Miss Pendleton.

As Secretary of the Teachers' Registry, Miss MARY CASWELL is prepared to furnish full and confidential information in regard to the qualifications, character, and experience of teachers educated at Wellesley. Former students of the College who wish situations as teachers, have the aid of the Teachers' Registry.

Applications for pecuniary assistance (see p. 21) should be made by letter, addressed to the Secretary, Students' Aid Society, Wellesley, Mass.

Inquiries about graduate study and the requirements for higher degrees may be made of Dr. HELEN L. WEBSTER, Chairman of Committee on Graduate Instruction.
